

Nordic Welfare Society

Basics, Values, Client Work, Media.

South-Eastern Finland
University of Applied Sciences

In general.

Nordic Welfare Society: Basics, Values, Client Work, Media – course package is only available in our southernmost campus in the seaside city of Kotka.

Courses are held on our brand-new campus located on the seafront and a few minutes walk from the city center.

All the courses are designed to fit into the learning needs of all those students who study topics related to the social field and education.

All the courses can be studied in English and they are scheduled between September and the middle of December.

The speciality of our course package are the media studies. We are the only university of applied sciences in Finland that offers media studies for the future workers of the social field.

We have twenty years of experience working with exchange students. And we have enjoyed every moment 😊

About the course package

Nordic Welfare Society: Basics, Values, Client Work, Media -course package is a mixture of theory and practice.

In our courses we'll take a closer look to the basics and values of social welfare work. Added to that, client work will be examined from various angles.

Most importantly, we examine how digitalization and the continuous effects of media challenge the everyday life and well-being of various customer groups, and thus, create new professional requirements for all who work in the social sector.

Our courses include reading and writing tasks and related to them we emphasize group discussions where we share our findings. Examinations are rare.
